European BIBFRAME Workshop 2017

German National Library – 26+27 September 2017

Lightning talk SWIB17

Leif Andresen

Royal Danish Library

Aims of the European BIBFRAME workshop

- forum for dialogue between representatives from library community in Europe about implementation of BIBFRAME
- forum for sharing knowledge and experience between European libraries
- forum for dialogue between Library of Congress and representatives from library community in Europe.

It is important to prepare the implementation of BIBFRAME in Europe. Some countries have taken the lead and other countries are more awaiting. In any case: we need more visibility of BIBFRAME and to start a process making BIBFRAME more international.

Introduction

- Over the last years, there have been several Linked Open Data projects in libraries.
- The library community needs one international standard for interchange of bibliographic metadata based on modern technology.
- BIBFRAME shall - according to the intentions of the Library of Congress - replace MARC.
- BIBFRAME has the potential to become more global than MARC21.

Headlines of the workshop

- 41 participants from 17 countries
